IMPORTANT DECISION

By the Supreme Court of the State a to the Selection of a Special Judge in Criminal Causes.

The following decision, which is of importance to the bar throughout the State, is among the most recent rendered by the supreme court: plea of not guilty was filed, is not well taken. These were merely ministerial acts, in nowise affecting the interest of the prisoner on the merits of his case. The law dicided regarding the remains lying in state. oner on the merits of his case. The law directs, in plain and unequivocal terms, what should be done. That this was done was recited by the clerk on the minutes of the court, verified by the signature of the judge, a mere formal act, awarding no proof, deciding no question. The omission to have spread the indictment upon the minutes would in no way have enlarged or diminished the rights of the accused. The policy of the government in requiring a spreading man Di Pretro will govern the church pendboth sides desire to try, on the district docket, or cases on the law docket which have been formally passed.

—M. P. Jarnagin, sitting as special chancellor, yesterday, rendered his decision in the case of W. B. Dinamore vs. C. Boyd et al., holding that the bill should be dismissed as to the V. Werner decree, and as to A. M.

In the genuine notes all the lines and shadows, being made with a parallel ruling machine, were exactly straight, while the shadows in the imitation notes were done with a graver, and were irregular control of the original. A more serious objection arises upon the following entry of record: "The regular judge, N. W. M'Connell, being incompetent to try this cause, by reason of his being counsel in the cause, it was agreed by both the counsel for the State and for the counsel for the State and for the counsel for the State and for the counsel in the course is the prisoner, and by the prisoner himself, in the crypt. The conclave will decide wheththat S. F. Wilson, a member of the bar, shall preside as special judge in the trial of this cause; thereupon N. W. M'Connell retired from the bench, and S. F. Wilson took the bench." Was this proceeding regular and according to the laws of the State? We think not. There is no provision of the constitution nor act of the legislature in the crypt. The conclave will decide whether the funeral shall be public or private. The pope's last act was to provide for the continuance of his servants salaries and the pensions of their widows.

All the cardinals who are in Rome, except Monsgrs. Amot and Panibianco, who are unwell, attended the preliminary congregation in the crypt. TURNEY, J. DO ALL ANIMALS REASON? A Story which Knocks into Pieces the Claim of Man that he is the Only

Reasoning Animal. The distinction between reason and in-stinct, those elements of the mind which have Leaf, goes to prove that man's assumption as to the exclusive right to reason is not altogether well founded or susceptible of logical proof: "James Meriwether, son of Dr. James Meriwether, of Woodstock farm, has a thoroughly and the proof of the proof oughbred pointer, which is said to be the finest dog in this county, and no doubt is the most intelligent. Many little stories and instances of canine sagacity could be interesting ly related of this purp. One especially may be told which distinguishes the animal as far above the ordinary brute intelligence. Dr. Meriwether has for some time been partially paralyzed; has lost one hand, and has man is suspected. also been seriously injured by a fall. He is scarcely able to, nor does not leave his yard without assistance. Recently, however, one pretty spring-like afternoon, he ventured out alone, hobbling on his cane to a large field make them confess. Bolden confessed and where some heavy plowing was being done, with the dog at his heels. Upon reaching the field the doctor seemed to forget himself, and climed to the top of a high fence to look over for the plowmen, who were at the far end of the field. All of a sudden his legs gave way, and he swung over, as it were, across the fence, and there hung, unable to extricate himself. He began to cry for help, but no one was within hearing. The dog, however, comprehended the situation, and when the hapless queen of Scotland lost her head uppon the scaffold. As "Mary Stuart" Janauschek was very effective and dramatic. Her rendition of the role was excellent in every particular. In form she did not present that appearance which running a short distance toward the field whining and then back to her. This he repeated again and again. The lady, convinced by the remarkable conduct of the beauty and attractiveness. Janauschek's broken English, or German accent, is another defect in the rendition of such English roles that have been so familiar to American audiences. The support rendered by the company was quite good; the leading roles being well sustained and the minor ones being presented in a commendable manner. At the matinee, to-day, Madame Janauschek and company will appear in Deborah, a drama of much merit, but one which Memphis theatergoers have witnessed many a time and oft. two was the happier, the doctor or the dog. The Metropolis Disaster Investigation. PHILADELPAIA, February 8.—The investigation into the loss of the Metropolis was continued to-day before the United States board of local inspectors. Joseph Monroe, for twenty-two years inspector for the board of underwriters of this city, and a shipmaster for eight years before that, stated in his testimony that the vessel was not worth more than twelve thousand dollars; on account of her general indications of weakness and decay, he thought it was a great want of prudence to take men who knew nothing about sanct, those elements of the mind which have been supposed to separate the animal man from the brute creation, has never been clearly explained or proven. The following story, taken from the Clarksville (Tenn.) Tobacco Leaf, goes to prove that many a supposed to separate the animal man with eight hundred tons of cargo aboard, and he so expressed himself to members of his company; he thought she might have been seaworthy without cargo. been seaworthy without cargo; he did not think she could have reached Para in ordi-
